LABOR IS SCARCE

IN SOUTHERN FIELDS

Suffering from Shortage of Help, Conditions Discussed by the Manufacturers' Record.

Baltimore, Md., June 22.—In summarizing in this week's issue, eight pages of letters from manufacturers throughout the country, the beginning of a series discussing the manufacturers' standpoint the supply of labor and its efficiency as related to the industrial advancement and immigration, the Manufacturers' Record says:

"There is a shortage of labor. This is most marked in the Southern states, where even individuals who, operating upon special lines, have an adequate supply, find a general lack in their neighborhood, but in the East, in the middle West and in manufacturing states beyond the Mississippi the situation is similar, though, perhaps, not so embarrassing. In some regions, especially near the great cities, the number of skilled workmen is sufficient, but there is a demand for the unskilled by no means met. In others there are plenty of unskilled, but not enough skilled, and in others yet both classes are short."

"Like variations occur in efficiency of the labor though a tendency toward lessened efficiency or lessened productivity seems to be widespread. This is attributed by some practical students to the organization of labor permitting mediocrity to set the pace for the mass, and suppressing individual ambition, by some to the increase in specialization with machine tools whereby the operator learns to do but one part of a job and is even stunted in doing that; by some to the opportunities created in a period of prosperity for the partly trained man to undertake work that he is not qualified to do right; by some to the union rules limiting the number of apprentices in a shop, with the effect that the call for trained men cannot be answered adequately; by some to a trained and really false system of education, which teaches American youth to prefer a $6 a week job and a clean collar to a $4 a day job with soiled clothes; by some to undue restrictions upon immigration to this country; by some to incompetents as well as incompetents; and by others to the shiftlessness and laziness which practically makes an increase in wages a curse to the wage earner."

The last mentioned is especially noticeable in the case of negro common labor, where the ambition seems to be to earn only so much every seven days and if it can be earned in two or three days to knock off the rest for the other four or five days. The spirit of so-called independence of employers thus begotten is, however, not the exclusive possession of unskilled negroes, whose natural history excuses them in part, but it is also the case of white men of the highest proficiency who, in the knowledge of the ease with which employment may be secured, are inclined to move and change industries requiring steadiness and stability for their full success are the sufferers. Vagrancy of the more pronounced type, that is the vagrancy which will do no work except under compulsion of the law, and lives upon the industrious elements of the country, is another evil complained of mostly in the South, affecting both employers and employees."

The desire for immigration to meet the deficiencies is at present strongest in the South. This seems to be explained by the fact that material for common labor predominates at present among the new comers to this country, and to the fact that for killed purposes the foreigner who is yet to be trained is not likely to become as efficient as a native American. Suggestion of immigration induces a wide range of opinion, from a willingness to "stop the wagon in the middle of the road" rather than to do it at all, to the spirit through large importations of foreigners to the strong desire that the law excluding Chinese labor be repealed. There is shown, too, a shifting after trial from one class of foreigners to another; contentment is expressed with conditions in New England, where so great a proportion of the labor is of foreign origin."

"A wish for a good class of immigrants prevails in the West and in the South, public sentiment is becoming stronger and stronger for an enlargement of the work done by state immigration bureaus and other reliable agencies to be supplemented by the movement of foreigners direct to Southern ports whence they may be distributed wherever needed in agriculture, in mining, in manufacturing, in the lumber camps, and in other construction work of various kinds. One of the strongest arguments for immigration to the South is that it will not only meet an immediate need, but will discover to the negroes that their so-called independence is but a temporary thing and that they must have any employment at all they must be willing to work persistently and regularly or disappear in the face of competition with foreign-born."

"In the South, in parts of the country where manufacturing has been long established, emphasis is laid upon the necessity for a radical change in educational methods, for the founding and liberal support of schools where the rising generation may learn thoroughly a whole trade and for the enlargement of the opportunities of the young, the point being made that, whereas in training for the professions, all is out-go until active practice begins, the apprentice is paid while he is learning. Criticism is also made of the methods of handling employees and employers upon some such principle as that the one is merely an individual to be utilized to the full for the sole benefit of the other, and experience is cited to demonstrate the advantages of what has come to be called "industrial welfare work" and in advocacy of a recognition of the human content in the relations of employer and employee."

TWO TOLD TESTIMONY

Barre People Are Doing All They Can for Fellow Sufferers.

Barre testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Barre who suffer from back aches and kidney ills. Let any sufferer doubt that the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills are thorough and lasting, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Barre people saying that the cures they told of years ago were permanent. Here's a Barre case:

George L. Cummings, engineer, living at 13 Branch street, Barre, Vt., says: "Eight years ago Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at E. A. Brown's drug store, stopped a constant dull aching in the small of my back and through the kidneys, which was always more severe after a hard day's work. I was convinced that Doan's Kidney Pills acted up to the representations made for them and I told of my experience in a statement published in our Barre papers. In addition to the aching in my back there was a distressing urinary weakness which was most annoying. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of all these troubles and there have only been slight recurrences since. At such times I have taken a few doses of the pills and the attack was always promptly checked. I have recommended your remedy to scores of people and know of many who have the same good opinion of it that I have."

BENEFIT TO SOCIETY.

Trades Unionism Tends to Promote General Welfare.

Organized labor's efforts to secure legislation was discussed in the national house, April 5. Hon. Charles A. Towne of New York city placed in the Record labor's statement of grievances and said:

"The economic forces of the age tend to capitalistic combination and consolidation, and if unrestrained and unregulated they threaten the stability of the social order. The workmen of the country may justly feel an especial interest in curbing the rapacity of these organized appetites which exist either by the warrant or by the permission of the laws. In this enterprise these petitioners become allies of all members of society not immediately associated in schemes of spoliation and plunder. When thus engaged they cease to be a faction, but become the representatives of the general welfare. Instead of meriting the appellation of agitators and disturbers, they range themselves among the conservative elements of our institutions in furtherance of what has become the great patriotic political duty of the hour—the restoration in the republic of the ancient standards of justice and equality under the law, the mingled safety and progress that constitute the goal and the sanction of democratic government."

For Open Shop.

Walter Drew, who hails from Grand Rapids, was in this city recently looking over the field to see what the prospects are for establishing the "open shop" in the building industry in Chicago, says Luke Grant in the Chicago Inter Ocean. Mr. Drew is the acting secretary of the National Erectors' association, and he says the open shop in the building trades has been established in Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Pontiac and several other flourishing centers and there should be no reason why it should not be established here. He is a young man and is quite enthusiastic and probably does not fully realize the extent of the project he has undertaken. The building trades workmen here are not looking for the open shop, and they are not losing sleep over Mr. Drew's visit. It is a good guess Mr. Drew will be considerably older before he succeeds in his project.

Syrian Rugs.

Most of the Syrian rugs are made with a small square of some decided color, generally blue, in the center, which is supposed to have the merit of warding off the "evil eye." The rug-makers use no patterns, depending entirely on the memory.
